While in Prescottlast evening we over heard a civilian make the remark that "those soldiers were d- reckless in their target practice, so much, in fact that that it is dangerous for one to pass in the vicinity." We would respectfully inform the gentleman that target practice is a part of our duties and must be done; and furthermore those "danger signals" (red flags) are placed there for warning and not as an ornament, and should heed them else they are liable to enter the happy hunting grounds of the "sweet by and by" with a rapidity that would surprise their relations. Yes gentlemen, we would kindly advise you, to give the target a wide berth during

DEMOCRACY.

The Besses get Their Work in Good Shape in To-Day's Convention-

The Slate Prepared by the Old "Wah Hosses" Goes Through With A Single Break.

The representatives of Yavapai cour y democracy commenced to arrive in Prescott as early as Thursday of last week, when the active work of buttonholing delegates, by candidates, was commenced. By Saturday evening the delegates had mostly arrived and during the evening and yesterday little groups could be seen on every street corner dis cussing the grave issues of the day. The bosses of the party were conspicuous from the county crib in the past. The usual sprinkling of the country contingent, seeking "offis," was out in force, and their plaintive pleadings for a 'new deal all 'round" met with the same cold reception that chilled it into death for "lo, these many years." In the words of the henchmen of the old regime, "the old wheel-horses of the party couldn't be turned out to grass" with winter so near and the "young-uns" would therefore have to possess their souls with patience until death shelved them, as the fool-killer had apparently overlooked them in the usual turn through the territory In a few remarks, in which lingered : tone of sadness for his blighted political prospects, Mr. D. J. Sullivan, the chair man of the democratic county central committee and the well-known author above-named places on the 4th inst., of "Public Probity in Political Politics," resulting in the selection of W. C. Potts, and other works, called the meeting to order by suggesting the election of a temporary chairman, which was prompt ly followed by General O'Neill nominating Hon. John J. Hawkins for the position of ringmaster of the circus, and on Mr. Harry Ashton, of Alexandra, vouch ing for Mr. Hawkins' political clearness that gentleman was declared duly elect-

"Be courteous to your creditors. "Keep your digestion good. "Steer clear of billiousness. "Exercise. 'Go slow and go easy." The Star adds that it reads much more like Henry Ward Beecher than Abraham Lincoln, and indeed, it does, especially the clause in regard to creditors. Lincoln never owed any one. General John B. Gordon of Georgia
